Seismic Retrofit

Humboldt State University's campus will soon undergo significant changes with a $34 million seismic retrofit on the Library and Theatre Arts buildings, scheduled to begin summer 2018 and be completed by Fall 2019. Here's what you need to know:

Major changes during the construction period will include the closure of parts of the Library, full closure of the Theatre Arts building, relocation of some offices, classrooms, and programs, and temporary construction of 12 modular buildings on the Campus Events Field.

Some campus roadways and walkways will be fenced off, changing accessibility routes.

Please see the backside of this flier for an updated map of closure and accessibility routes.

The funding for these projects comes from California State University system bonds and other sources. The funds are separate from HSU's operating budget.

The buildings are currently safe, but the revisions will improve the safety and integrity of the buildings based on engineering models of a very large earthquake.

Classrooms are listed in the Fall 2018 class schedule as "CEF" — this refers to the Campus Event Field modular buildings with the corresponding number.

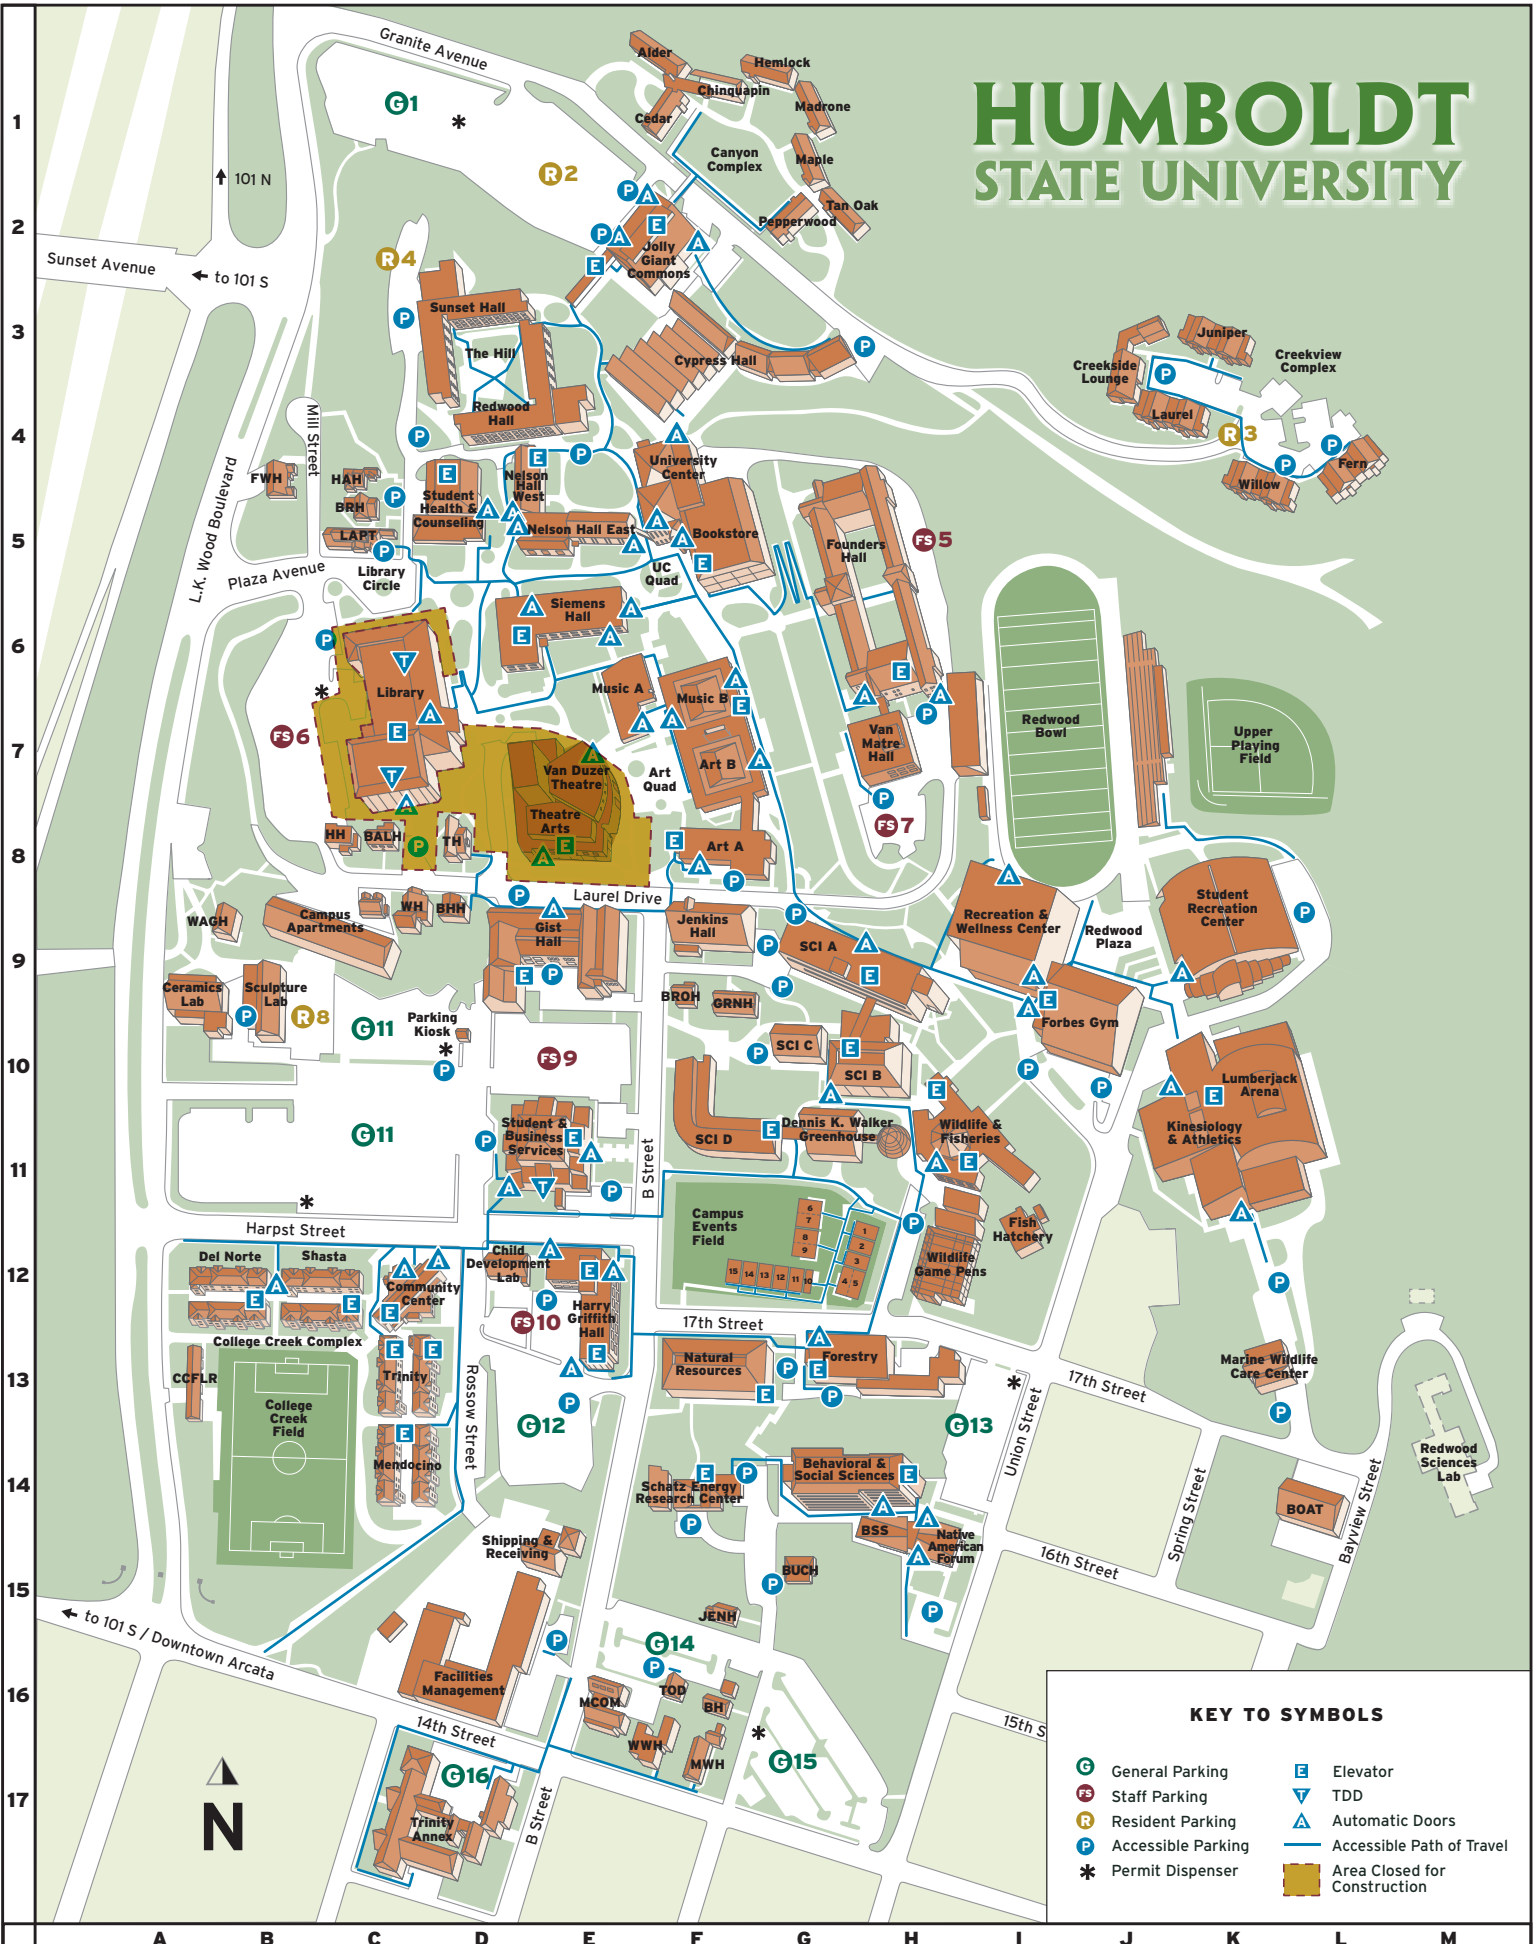

The CEF spaces have been added to 25Live. Please look for campus announcements or go to the project website below for a final list of departments that have been moved and their new locations. These changes will also be reflected in the campus directory.

The CEF project is currently underway and the construction fencing will be in place through August 1, 2018.

The construction fence line for the Library and Theatre Arts projects has tentatively been planned for installation on the week of August 13, 2018. Construction schedules will be available on the project website below.

New maps of the campus show the CEF spaces, as well as road and pathway closures. Accessibility routes will change, so please pay close attention to these and contact the Student Disability Resource Center at disability.humboldt.edu if necessary. Find the maps at humboldt.edu/maps.
