

“Game Theory and Fun Applications”

Dr. Brett Saraniti

Clinical Professor of Managerial Economics & Decision Sciences

Northwestern Kellogg School of Management and
UC Davis Graduate School of Management

Brett Saraniti received his PhD in Managerial Economics and Decision Sciences from the Kellogg School of Management in 1997. His dissertation chair was Roger Myerson, Nobel Laureate 2007. Brett has taught MBA and executive courses at Kellogg where he has been honored with four teaching awards. He has also worked, taught, and/or consulted for McKinsey & Company, Xerox Corporation, and others.

Thursday, April 30

4-5pm

Siemens Hall 108

