Business Administration

Business Administration, M.B.A. - 26-3504 - Change Program Description. Remove Admission Prerequisites from the Program Description.

Anthropology

ANTH - 691 - 26-3481 - Consent Course Change - Comprehensive Exam. (1) Update course description to be clearer regarding the content of the exam and that the course includes taking the exam, not just working towards it. (2) Update requisites: Pregs: Replace ANTH 670 and 671 with ANTH 600 because ANTH 670/671 are combining into a new course ANTH 600) Coregs: Add ANTH 676 because it is one of the required core courses and should have always been on the list. (3) Add ZCCM: Checking the box for "No Course Materials Required" because there are no required materials for this course. Current Description: Work toward completion of comprehensive exam with guidance from faculty. Comprehensive exams are generally completed during students' final semester in MA program. Proposed Description: Prepare for and complete a comprehensive exam pertaining to general and focus areas within and related to anthropology. This course is generally completed during the final semester in the MA Applied Anthropology program. Current Requisites: Prerequisites: ANTH 670, ANTH 671. Corequisites: ANTH 672, ANTH 674, ANTH 682 Proposed Requisites: Prerequisites: ANTH 600. Corequisites: ANTH 672, ANTH 674, ANTH 676, ANTH 682

Sociology

SOC - 650 - 26-3494 - Consent Course Change - Race, Ethnicity and Gender. Course description change only. Current Description: Causes, processes, theoretical explanations of racism, sexism, discrimination. Possible solutions. Intergroup relations from global perspective. Proposed Description: Deep exploration of contemporary social theory exploring production and maintenance of a racialized and gendered social order, structural forces of difference, resistance, collective action, and liberatory struggles for social justice.

Environmental Science and Management

Environmental Science and Management, Energy and Climate Concentration, B.S. - 26-3273 - Change Concentration Requirements. Changes made so students can move through the program in a timely manner. Budget cuts have lead to increasing need for substitutions of courses. The proposed changes include:

1. Remove PHYX 106 (4 units), PHYX 107 (4 units), and ENGR 371 (3 units) (total decrease of 11 units)
2. Add a new “Sustainability Analysis” course (+3 units) (ESM 375) as stand alone requirement (see separate proposal ESM - 375 - 27-3442).

3. Create a new section of restricted electives in which students choose 2 courses from the following: ESM 360, ESM 365, ESM 460, ENGR 355, ECON 309, ECON 423, GSP 270, GSP 216, PSCI 364, PSCI 303W, PSCI 373.
4. Convert ESM 370 to 3-unit lecture only class (3 WTUs instead of 4 WTUs)

These changes will mean a net loss of 2 units in the Energy & Climate concentration (from 40 units to 38 units total).

ESM - 370 - 26-3446 - Course Change - Energy, Technology and Society. C-classification change from 2 units of Lecture and 1 unit of Laboratory to 3 units of Lecture. Reducing the number of class contact hours and the number of WTUs awarded.

ESM - 375 - 26-3442- New Course - Sustainability Analysis. There is strong student and employer interest in the course content being offered. The proposed curriculum changes in the ESM Energy & Climate concentration that include the creation of this course are aimed to respond to that stated need. This course is 4 WTUs, but part of the curriculum revising is to reduce ESM 370 from 4 to 3 WTUs, so the net increase in WTUs is 3. Course Description: Quantitative and qualitative analysis of dimensions and drivers of sustainability including entity carbon accounting, facility energy performance, supply-chain governance, waste management, and behavior change.

Units: 3 (2 units of C-02 Lecture, 1 unit of C-16 Lab) Instruction Mode: In Person Grade Mode: Optional Grade Basis Permission to Enroll: No Special Consent Required Requisites: Prerequisite: ESM 230 Sustainability: Sustainability Focused
