One Path. Two Degrees. Less Time.

Combine your B.A. in Criminology & Justice Studies or Sociology with an M.A. in Public Sociology

How does the combined program work?

- Upper-division transfer students: 2+1 years coursework
- First-time students: 4+1 years coursework
- Meet with faculty advisor to develop plan that maps about 100 units completed by end of Junior year
- Take SOC 472 (1) "Graduate School Planning" Fall Junior year, where you will work on your application
- Apply to BA/MA Program in Spring semester Junior year

What is the focus of the Masters in Public Sociology?

The curriculum focuses on social justice and environmental sustainability with advanced training in qualitative & quantitative research methods. As students move from undergraduate to graduate coursework, they choose an experience emphasis in either practicing sociology or teaching sociology. Learn more about the program and the emphasis options in our catalog and on our website.

What are advantages of doing a combined BA/MA program?

Save Time – Double count 12 units toward both BA and MA.
Finish both degrees in just one extra year.

Save Money – Pay undergraduate tuition until 120 units.
Then just one extra year of graduate tuition (vs. two).

Stay Challenged – Jump into graduate seminars early.
Earn credit for both degrees.

Boost Career – Stand out for advanced jobs and competitive doctoral programs.
