

CANN 345: Cannabis Regulatory and Environmental Requirements

Instructor: Dan Mar
MW 9AM-10:20AM
3 units

Explore how water and wildlife became the nexus for cannabis cultivation and environmental regulations.

- Take an in depth look at California Dept. of Fish & Wildlife, State and Regional Water Boards permitting pathways - including barriers and alternatives to compliance.
- This course will offer opportunities for field studies within our local watersheds and on cannabis farms.

Cannabis & Social Equity

CANN 325 | ONLINE | 3 UNITS

Instructor: William Dolphin

11:00 - 12:20 Tuesdays & Thursdays

Learn how and why cannabis criminalization hurts some communities more than others, who is affected by inequities, and what constitutes equitable solutions.

FALL 2026
COURSE

H. Cal Poly Humboldt
Cannabis
Studies

CANN 202: Humboldt & Cannabis

MW 11:00 AM - 12:20 PM 3 UNITS

Students will explore the following concepts:

- Back-to-the-land movement, settler colonialism, and Indigenous impacts
- Bioregional activism, communal organizing, and cannabis politics
- Legalization and Humboldt's changing cannabis economy

INSTRUCTOR: NATHAN WHITTINGTON

H.

Cal Poly Humboldt
Criminology &
Justice Studies

FALL 2026
COURSE

CRIM 362: GENDER, SEXUALITY, & CRIME

INSTRUCTOR: TORISHA KHONACH

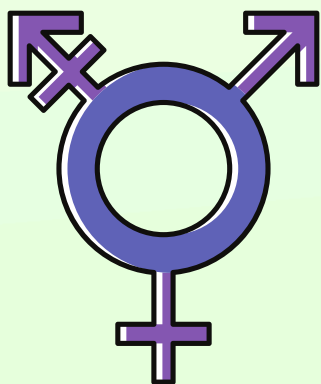

ONLINE

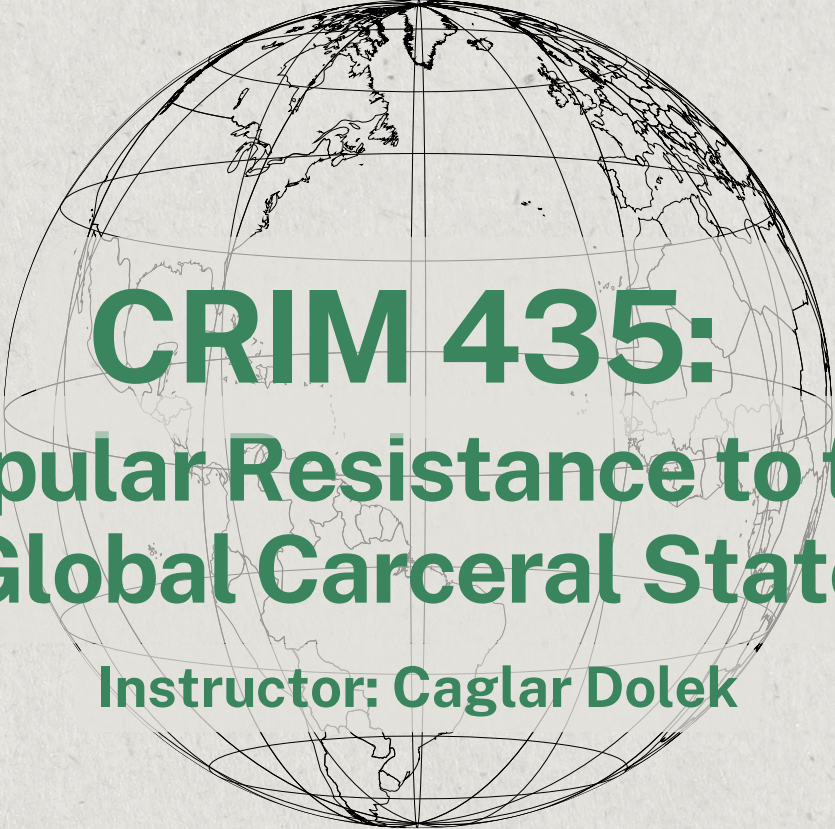

MW 3:00 - 4:50 PM

4 UNITS

Interested in a historical view of gender, sexuality, and criminality?

Learn how the gendered and sexed body is viewed as normal/abnormal... and the discourses that designate criminality

CRIM 435:
Popular Resistance to the Global Carceral State

Instructor: Caglar Dolek

MW: 1:00 - 2:50 | On Campus

4 UNITS

This course offers:

- a critical exploration of how the carceral state is shaped and challenged in the contemporary world.
- an examination of the Global South by focusing on diverse forms of resistance to violence, criminalization, surveillance, policing, and punishment across historical geographies.

CRIM 445: Comparative War on Drugs

ONLINE  M/W  9 - 10:50 AM  4 UNITS

- History and consequences of drug wars around the world.
- Effects on marginalized communities.
- US role in international drug wars.
- Racial disparities and reproduction of the global color line.
- Policy alternatives.

Instructor: Dr. Stefanie Israel de Suza

SOC 108: Statistics for the Social Sciences

Instructor:
Dr. Christina Martinek

Tues/Thurs
1pm-2:20pm

3 UNITS:

Satisfies Lower Division G.E Area 2 Mathematics

Use fundamental statistical methods to describe and analyze social phenomena.

Become a critical consumer of quantitative research findings using descriptive and inferential statistics in the social sciences.

FALL 2026 COURSE

H. Cal Poly Humboldt
Sociology

THE CHANGING FAMILY

SOC 306

Instructor: Elizabeth Rienzi

T/TH 3pm - 4:20pm

- ★ What do academic studies reveal about the evolving nature of family life?
- ★ How do low birthrates and increased life expectancy impact our family life?
- ★ How does public policy shape the lives of families in the U.S.?
- ★ What can we learn by examining diverse family structures and experiences?

Explore the changing nature of the family across time and cross-culturally

SOC 316

MW 1PM-2:50PM

GENDER AND SOCIETY

4 UNITS

INSTRUCTOR: ELIZABETH RIENZI

How does gender shape our everyday lives?

We see gender in our neighborhoods, our schools, our churches, our jails, and all over the media. It can be challenging and risky to talk about gender and sexism, but you are invited to take a chance and be curious, compassionate with one another, and humble in exploring these concepts, theories, and social issues.